FUEL SHOCK: RUSTENBURG FEELS THE SQUEEZE

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg

— What felt like an April Fool's prank quickly became reality as fuel hikes, shortages and uncertainty triggered panic buying across the city. Motorists rushed to fill tanks and containers, fearing both rising prices and supply disruptions, while long queues formed at petrol stations across Rustenburg.

Platinum Weekly visited Astron Energy in Klopper Street, where the situation shifted dramatically within hours — busy forecourts packed with vehicles one evening stood nearly empty the next day. Confusion around the April increase, combined with a temporary fuel levy relief of about R3 per litre, left many residents unsure of what they are actually paying and what lies ahead.

With global pressures — including ongoing conflict in the Middle East — driving up oil prices, and local households already stretched, the impact is being felt far beyond the pump. For many, it is no longer just about adjusting a budget, but about making difficult choices. As uncertainty continues, the big question remains: what will this mean for Rustenburg's economy and everyday survival?

OWM KEEPS MOMENTUM GOING WEEK AFTER WEEK

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – This is not a once-off effort – it’s a routine. With visible progress across Wards 15, 16 and 17, the initiative, led by André van Dyk alongside Ward 17 councillor Tanya Rothman, continues to make a real impact as teams tackle illegal dumping, overgrown spaces, and safety concerns across Rustenburg.

André van Dyk and Cllr Tanya Rothman leading from the front – driving change and inspiring community action across Rustenburg.

Waterfall East: large-scale clean-up
During 26–28 March 2026, Our Ward Matters took hands with Ward 42 Crew and Cllr Adri Grové for a major clean-up in Waterfall East.

Work started opposite Casa Valde and moved through 4th Avenue towards Caya Belle, ending near Short Road (Elephant’s View). A second team worked from 5th Avenue near Summer Breeze Complex, while additional teams focused on road islands, sidewalks, and key problem areas. Teams cleared extensive illegal dumping, cut thick overgrowth, and debused large sections to restore visibility and safety.

Across the three-day operation, the scale of the clean-up was evident in the sheer number of refuse bags fully filled and used. On Day 1, about 160 bags were filled, with a further 50 added later that day. Day 2 saw another 160 bags filled, while more than 40 additional bags were used. By Day 3, approximately 60 more bags were filled as teams focused on road islands and final clean-ups.

Strong Support

The clean-up was supported by multiple roleplayers and community members. Cllr Adri Grové secured sponsors for the project, while Cllr Tanya Rothman supported the extended workforce with additional refuse bags and brushcutters, and also assisted with loading refuse into the RLM skip. The Rustenburg Local Municipality Waste Department provided skips and ongoing collections, already collecting refuse multiple times during the operation. Support on the ground included Loelie Ravenscroft from RE/MAX, volunteers (including families), and EPWP teams working in the area. FADT Security (Justus and Isaac) ensured visibility and safety in Line Road, while Allied Crane Hire assisted with loading branches and refuse bags. Behind the scenes, Ilse du Preez coordinated food and refreshments for the team. Across the three days, hundreds of refuse bags were removed, with teams working across 4th Avenue, 5th Avenue, Short Road, Line Road, and surrounding areas. In addition, Cllr Adri Grové and team members painted a wall in Line Road, with further improvements planned using paint sponsored by Dulux. While significant progress has been made, illegal dumping and overgrown areas remain ongoing challenges.

Beyond Waterfall East

Work continued in Kwartel Crescent, where OWM assisted residents by clearing overgrown areas behind properties leading into Helen Joseph, improving safety and creating a cleaner environment. Additional clean-ups took place near Rustenburg Baptist Church and opposite Wildevy Centrum, with refuse placed for collection.

Ongoing Maintenance

On 31 March, the team worked in Azalea Park along Langeberg Avenue and surrounding areas, focusing on cutting grass and maintaining open spaces. This ongoing work helps prevent veld fires, improves visibility, and reduces safety risks.

Hands-on and hard at work – dedicated teams push through tough conditions to restore pride, safety, and cleanliness to their community.

Massive clean-up efforts rolled out across Waterfall East on 26-28 March, as teams tackled illegal dumping, overgrown vegetation, and unsafe public spaces.

02:00 CRACKDOWN Murder Suspects Arrested in Phokeng Raid

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – A high-impact, early morning operation in Phokeng has led to the arrest of two suspects linked to multiple murder cases.

According to South African Police Service (SAPS), the arrests were made during a coordinated raiding operation conducted at approximately 02:00 on Friday, 27 March 2026, in Freedom Park. The suspects, aged 44 and 49, were apprehended following an intelligence-driven investigation.

Police spokesperson colonel Anne Magakoe confirmed that the operation was led by Phokeng Detectives, supported by Public Order Policing (POP) units and Bidvest Protea Coin, which provided aerial drone assistance.

Authorities executed the raid with precision, establishing a secure perimeter around the target area before conducting simultaneous entries to limit any chance of escape. The use of drone technology enabled real-time aerial monitoring, significantly enhancing both operational efficiency and officer safety during the high-risk intervention.

The two suspects appeared before the Tlhabane Magistrates' Court on Monday, 30 March 2026.

Acting provincial commissioner major general (Dr) Ryno Naidoo praised the team for their swift, coordinated response, highlighting the importance of intelligence-led policing in tackling serious and violent crime.

20 YEARS BEHIND BARS FOR KOSTER HIJACKER

some murder
sentences?

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Koster/Rustenburg – A 37-year-old man has been sentenced to 20 years' direct imprisonment for car hijacking and possession of suspected stolen property – an outcome welcomed by police, but one that is also likely to spark debate around sentencing consistency in South Africa.

The Koster Regional Court handed down the sentence to Marang Confidence Morale on Tuesday, 24 March 2026, following his conviction for a hijacking reported in Koster in May 2024, as well as a related case of possession of suspected stolen property in Lichtenburg.

According to police spokesperson colonel Anne Magakoe, the accused was found guilty on both counts and received a combined sentence of 20 years' imprisonment. In addition, Morale was declared unfit to possess a firearm in terms of Section 103(1) of the Firearms Control Act, 2000.

The acting provincial commissioner of North West, Ryno Naidoo, welcomed the sentence, commending investigating officer Alfred Mogapi Letshwiti and the Rustenburg Vehicle Crime Investigation Unit (VCIU) for their work in securing the conviction.

Legal experts note that courts do not only punish the outcome of a crime, but also the level of violence, intent, and threat to life. In hijacking cases, victims are frequently held at gunpoint, assaulted, or placed in life-threatening situations – factors that weigh heavily in sentencing.

Fuel prices no April Fool's joke

FUEL SHOCK: RUSTENBURG FEELS THE SQUEEZE

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Platinum Weekly visited Astron Energy, 280 Klopper Street, Rustenburg, on 1 April 2026 to understand how fuel increases are affecting businesses and residents.

Fuel prices increased sharply from April, with inland petrol (95) rising from approximately R20.19 to around R25.00 per litre, while diesel climbed to around R26 per litre, depending on supply. Government introduced a temporary reduction of the general fuel levy of about R3 per litre for April, softening what could have been an even steeper increase.

The spike is largely linked to escalating conflict in the Middle East, which has disrupted global oil supply chains and pushed crude oil prices higher. Combined with a weaker rand and local cost structures, this has placed additional pressure on South African fuel prices. According to Astron Energy Klopper Street site managers Heinrich Botterill and Chaun Nieuwenhuizen, diesel was initially expected to rise by around R10, but adjusted to approximately R7 after the levy relief. Many customers, however, were unaware of this reduction.

Botterill described a clear shift in behaviour: "As soon as people heard about the increase, they started filling up more – some even bringing containers. But the next day, everything changed." The station saw vehicles at every pump the previous evening, yet by the following day, only around eight vehicles had come through.

Customer Thabo Motsilyone shared his experience: "I usually fill 95 unleaded, but there was none available. There was also no diesel. I ended up filling 93 and made sure my tank was full because I thought fuel might run out." Botterill added that quieter roads may partly be due to school holidays, but expects demand to increase again once school transport resumes.

For some residents, the impact is already severe. One motorist said the cost of travelling from outside town to work is now nearly equal to his income. "What must we cut – food or rent?" he asked.

Importantly, fuel stations are not to blame. While diesel prices may vary, garages are largely the middle link in a supply chain influenced by global oil markets, exchange rates and national policy.

Fuel-Saving Tips...

Drive smoothly and avoid harsh braking. Keep tyres properly inflated and service your vehicle regularly. Remove unnecessary weight and limit aircon use. Plan trips, combine errands and consider carpooling. Compare prices – especially diesel. Small changes can ease the pressure.

The team at Astron Energy in Klopper Street, working under pressure to assist customers during a week of fuel shortages, long queues and uncertainty.

PSA outraged by NSFAS corruption: Demands immediate accountability

Platinum Publishers | SA – The Public Servants Association (PSA) is alarmed and outraged regarding revelations by the auditor-general, indicating that the National Student Financial Aid Scheme (NSFAS) continues to disburse bursary funds to 822 deceased students, reflecting a severe collapse in governance, financial controls, and basic administrative integrity within the organisation.

According to multiple credible reports, 822 students listed as deceased in the Department of Home Affairs database were still receiving NSFAS bursaries. The PSA is further disturbed that the same audit uncovered continued funding of more than 14,000 students whose household incomes exceed eligibility thresholds, as well as thousands who failed academic progression requirements or already hold prior qualifications. Additionally, 321 students were found to be “double dipping,” receiving NSFAS bursaries and social relief of distress grants. These findings indicate a systemic governance failure in NSFAS, supported by evidence of unsafe and non-compliant student accommodation arrangements that severely compromise student welfare. Reports highlight students being housed in unsafe environments, substandard facilities, and in some instances, placed at risk owing to accommodation providers breaching contractual and safety requirements. This scandal mirrors long-standing concerns regarding mismanagement and corruption in NSFAS, which has consistently failed to implement previous audit recommendations. The auditor-general has issued NSFAS with a disclaimer of opinion, the most severe audit outcome possible, confirming a profound breakdown in transparency and accountability. This dire situation resulted in the minister of Higher Education and Training ordering an urgent forensic investigation and activated collaboration with the Special Investigating Unit. Whilst the PSA acknowledges this intervention, it is emphasised that reactive investigations are not enough. Systemic reform is required to restore public trust. The PSA therefore demands an immediate full forensic audit of all NSFAS beneficiaries and service providers, including retrospective recovery of misallocated funds. Implicated officials should be suspended pending disciplinary and possible criminal proceedings. There is an urgent need for an overhaul of NSFAS financial controls, verification systems, and data management, especially the integration of Home Affairs records. Parliamentary oversight hearings should be held on administrative and political leadership accountable for repeated governance failures. There must be protection for legitimate beneficiaries, ensuring that ongoing investigations do not disrupt funding for qualifying students. The scale of irregularities at NSFAS reflects an institutional crisis and undermines national efforts to expand access to higher education for poor and working-class families. The PSA urges government to treat this matter with the seriousness it deserves. South Africans cannot continue to bear the costs of inefficiency, mismanagement, and corruption, particularly in institutions entrusted with supporting the youth and the future workforce.

PSALM 23: 1-3

1 The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

NEW KING JAMES VERSION (NKJV)

HAVE YOUR SAY

Would you trust someone again if you caught them lying to you?

Trust is the foundation of any relationship, but a single lie can break it. Some believe honesty can rebuild what was lost, while others feel trust, once broken, is gone for good. What do you think – second chance or final goodbye?

"No. It depends on the situation, but if someone lies once, it becomes easier to do it again. Trust is hard to rebuild once it's been broken."

Jim Nkuna, Rustenburg

"It depends on the lie. Trust takes time to build and effort to restore. I believe in second chances – but only if there's genuine remorse. Some betrayals, however, are simply too serious to forgive."

Henry Holsthyzen, Mooiooi

YOUR BODY NEEDS WATER MORE THAN YOU THINK...

Did you know that even mild dehydration can affect your mood, focus, and energy levels? Experts say losing just 1-2% of your body's water can make you feel tired and reduce concentration.

In South Africa's warm climate, many people don't drink enough water during the day – especially while working outdoors or driving long distances. Your body is made up of about 60% water, and staying hydrated helps regulate temperature, support brain function, and keep your muscles working properly.
